Rural Programs COP (managing programs in Rural or Frontier Communities)

02:00 PM - 03:00 PM EST

Rural Community of Practice

Volunteer Engagement Professionals in small towns face unique challenges and opportunities that aren't always addressed by advice intended for city-based audiences. There are also fewer opportunities to connect with others doing similar work across the country. That's what led to the creation of ALIVE's Community of Practice (CoP) for volunteer engagement professionals in rural communities.

August ALIVE Academy: Volunteer Career Mapping

01:00 PM - 02:15 PM EST

*August ALIVE Academy: Volunteer Career Mapping Presented by Alicia Morris Campbell, Director, Volunteer Expertise Hub- Habitat for Humanity International
If you had 10 ideal volunteers to spread across your agency, what would they do?
After this session, you will....*

Identify volunteers to serve as leaders and how to coach and support them through the career mapping process

Gain tools on how to create a career mapping plan

Presented by Alicia Morris Campbell, Director, Volunteer Expertise Hub - Habitat for Humanity International

Alicia is a nonprofit professional with over 10 years of experience in volunteer management. She has developed and led volunteer programs and services for both locally-focused and nationally based organizations. She has specialized in engaging youth and young adult volunteers and has extensive knowledge around volunteer event planning and management. She has presented at conferences such as Points of Light and the Illinois Conference of Volunteer Administrators. She also served as the VP of Marketing and Communications for the Association of Volunteer Administrators of Metro Chicago. Alicia has served on employee resource committees where she's led the charge in her local area around DEI initiatives. Alicia has a Bachelor's degree in Political Science from La Salle University, a Master's degree in Public Administration-Nonprofit Management, and a graduate certificate in Human Resource Management both from Keller Graduate School of Management. She currently resides in the Chicago area.

September ALIVE Academy: Creating a More Inclusive Space for Volunteers

01:00 PM - 02:30 PM EST

September ALIVE Academy: Creating a More Inclusive Space For Volunteers

September 28, 1 PM - 90 minutes

As volunteer engagement professionals we should be committed to removing the visible, invisible and perceived barriers to volunteering. We should be mindful that we are including volunteers from the communities that we serve, including persons who are black, indigenous, people of color (BIPOC), LGBTQ, and people with disabilities. Join with colleagues interested in advancing equity in their volunteer programs for a conversation to help increase diversity, equity and inclusion of volunteers.

Session Objectives:

Workshop participants will leave with an understanding of how to identify areas of their volunteer programs that are not inclusive.

Workshop participants will hear real-life examples from others about how they identified areas for improvement, developed a plan for implementation and managed both the challenges and successes they experienced.

Participants will be able to engage with each other to hear more examples and learn how they can implement their own inclusivity strategies and address any potential challenges.

About the Presenters:

Joshua Rogers Originally from Memphis, TN, Josh is a graduate of Morehouse College, Arkansas State University, and Georgia State University. He is passionate about uplifting communities and effecting systematic change in society. Josh has several years of community development and strategic planning experience. He is married to Asha Rodgers and they live in the Atlanta Metropolitan Area with their two sons, Joshua, II and Jayden Alexander.

Darlene Laird is HFHI's Skilled Volunteer Strategy and Engagement Manager and specializes in creating resources, trainings, and promising practices for the Habitat affiliated network to engage skilled volunteers. She brings 15 years of experience as a leader of volunteers and in her most recent work, she has served as part of Habitat for Humanity International's Volunteer Resource Center, Global Village, and the Habitat AmeriCorps program.. Darlene has her certificate in Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion in the Workplace from the University of South Florida. and holds a CVA from the Council for Certification in Volunteer Administration. She has served as a governing board member for a local charter school for 5 years.

This ALIVE Academy is free to all participants as part of ALIVE's commitment to build learning on DEAI issues for our profession.

Individual Registration: Data That Matters and Creating The Right Story Volunteer Manager's

Varies - see calendar
ALIVE – Better Impact – VMPC present
The Volunteer Management Hybrid Conference
Individual Registration

Tuesday, October 18 –
9:30 AM - 3:30 PM Pacific
9:30 - 3:30 PM Mountain Standard time zones
10:30-4:30 PM Mountain Daylight Time

Wednesday, October 19
10:30 AM - 4:30 PM Atlantic
9:30 AM - 3:30 PM , Eastern
8:30 AM -2:30 PM Central time zones

This is the volunteer management conference presented by ALIVE, Better Impact, and VMPC (Volunteer Management Professionals of Canada). Now in its eighth year, this year's topic will focus on the impact of data. Everyone is being expected to take advantage of data, no matter what their size, mission, or budget. Decision makers want organizations to use data to show their value beyond what the financials show. But it's more than that. It's also knowing what data is important and telling the story behind the data that really matters.

With limited resources, how do agencies partnering with volunteers choose an approach that combines the right mix of data and tools to provide insight relevant to your organization? And where is it going to come from?

This year's Volunteer Management Hybrid Conference will focus on equipping leaders of volunteers with skills to determine what data is useful and how to tell impactful stories using different tools and technologies.

We are pleased to announce our speakers for this years Volunteer Management Hybrid Conference.

Veronica Deally - Why Volunteers Deserve Their Own Annual Report
Adam Shilling – What's In It For Them?" Persuading Leaders and Decisions Makers
Maura Fitzpatrick – Positioning Yourself as the Expert and Communicating with Impact and Confidence
Tony Goodrow – The Relative Impact Model for Measuring the ROI of Volunteer Engagement

Our current streaming event will consist of four 20 minute presentations, local discussion in smaller groups, followed by a moderated discussion with the other presenters (think Ted talk meets late night tv), including responding to questions from the audience.

The broadcast will be streamed live in the United States and Canada, with the likelihood of an audience of 1000 or more. In order to participate, you will need an internet connection strong enough to handle audio/video streaming and adequate computer or external speakers.

You can learn more about the conference by visiting the main conference website.

How does it work?

Once you register and we receive payment, we will send you a unique link and the conference handbook a few days before the event. You may register for any time zone that is convenient to you, the content for October 18 or 19 will be the same. Individual registrants will be assigned to small group discussion 'virtual tables' the day of the conference depending on registrations. We will try to assign you to tables depending on your geographic area and/or your affinity group, so please be sure and fill out all the questions to help us assign you to your group.

Registration and payment policy

Registration begins July 22 and ends October 13.

International Volunteer Managers Day: Many Backgrounds - One Profession - Stronger Together

All day long

International Volunteer Managers Day - November 5, 2022

<https://volunteermanagersday.org/>

"Many Backgrounds – One Profession – Stronger Together"

This theme conveys a strength the volunteer leadership sector possesses that we don't draw on enough... the huge and diverse range of backgrounds that volunteering leaders come from.

On one hand – we come from a wide range of professional backgrounds. We are also made up of people from all walks of life and different cultural backgrounds.

We believe that this diversity of backgrounds should allow us to think differently, we can find solutions together when we come at issues from different perspectives. As we all have different skill sets we should be able to collectively collaborate and use more these more productively.

Rural Programs COP (managing programs in Rural or Frontier Communities)

02:00 PM - 03:00 PM EST

Rural Community of Practice

Volunteer Engagement Professionals in small towns face unique challenges and opportunities that aren't always addressed by advice intended for city-based audiences. There are also fewer opportunities to connect with others doing similar work across the country. That's what led to the creation of ALIVE's Community of Practice (CoP) for volunteer engagement professionals in rural communities.
